Professional Profile

Dr Emma Reynolds is a Consultant Clinical Neuropsychologist specialising in the assessment and rehabilitation of adults with acquired brain injury and neurological disorders. She has 24 years' NHS experience, including over 10 years at Consultant level.

During her NHS career, she worked extensively with individuals with a range of neurological conditions, including traumatic brain injury, brain tumour, neurological infection, stroke and neurodegenerative disorders, and held senior clinical and service development responsibilities. She now works primarily in independent practice, while continuing to provide supervision and consultation to NHS neuropsychology services.

She is Clinical Director of the Neuro Psychology Clinic, which provides specialist neuropsychological assessment, rehabilitation and medico-legal services.

Medico-Legal Practice

Dr Reynolds has provided independent expert evidence to the courts since 2015 and undertakes approximately 90 medico-legal reports annually in personal injury and clinical negligence cases. Approximately 55% of her instructions are from Claimants and 45% from Defendants, received directly from solicitors' firms and through medico-legal agencies.

Assessments are typically offered within 4 to 6 months of instruction, with reports usually completed within approximately four weeks of the assessment. Urgent assessments can be accommodated within a shorter timeframe, subject to availability.

Assessments are offered in London and at selected locations across the UK. Alternative clinic locations and domiciliary assessments can be arranged where clinically appropriate.

Dr Reynolds holds the Cardiff University Law School Bond Solon Civil Expert Certificate, covering medico-legal report writing, courtroom skills and cross-examination.
