

I instructed Professor Andrew Wardley to prepare a screening report and, subsequently, a full liability report in a medical negligence claim concerning the standard of oncology care. Both reports were excellent.

Professor Wardley's reporting was clear, thorough, and highly accessible. He addressed the issues in a structured way, and his reports were of significant assistance in advising my client and advancing the case.

What stood out most was the impact of his work on my client. After I discussed the report with her, she asked me to convey her sincere gratitude to Professor Wardley. She finally felt listened to and vindicated in her concerns about the standard of her oncology care. In claimant medical negligence work, having clarity and validation is profoundly important.

Professor Wardley's work gives injured parties confidence that their concerns will be carefully examined and, where there are proper grounds for a claim, that their concerns will be clearly and effectively articulated.

I would have no hesitation in recommending Professor Wardley as a medico-legal expert.
